Russia West Black Sea 1:2,000,000 Travel Map with city plans Double-sided, large format (120 x 98 cm / 47 x 38.5 in.) map covering most of the European part of Russia, extending north to St. Petersburg and east to Kazan. Also covered are the Baltic States, Belarus, Ukraine, Moldova, most of Romania and Bulgaria and the whole Black Sea. The main map at 1:2,000,000 uses the Cyrillic script where appropriate, names of towns and villages are also in Latin alphabet. Names of geographical features (rivers, etc.) are shown only latinized. The map shows road and rail networks, with locations of special interest prominently highlighted. Within Russia, internal administrative divisions and time zones are shown. Latitude and longitude lines are drawn at 2° intervals. Half of the reverse side is taken by a map of the ex-Soviet Union with relief shading and plenty of names of various geographical features: mountains, plateaux, etc. The map shows both internal administrative divisions within Russia and the borders of the ex-republics and other neighbouring countries. Road and railways are shown, including the Trans-Siberian railway route and its spur to Ulaanbaatar and Beijing. Added is a map of the Lake Baikal and its surroundings at 1:2,000,000, with names in both Cyrillic and Alphabet. Also included are street plans of central Moscow, St. Petersburg, Kiev and Minsk, street names are in both Cyrillic and Alphabet. The index is in a separate booklet attached to the map cover. Map legend includes Russian, English, German and French. The map also provides special features to aid route planning and navigation: a fold-out flap in the jacket gives an overview of the whole area covered with the grid reference system in the margins making it easier to find places on the map itself. A set of peel-on / peel-off stickers, removable without damaging the map surface, is provided for marking selected locations in the map.
